They are available either as 8 by 10 inch photographic prints, at 12 cents each; or as 16 by 20 inch bromide enlargements mounted on cloth, at $2 each, through the Office of Cooperative Extension Work, the department, Washington, D. C.

Natural colored theatrical gauze makes attractive inexpensive glass curtains.

Casement cloth draw curtains matching the walls frame a lovely view.

Nursery windows should be simply curtained.

Double Dutch draw curtains shorten a tall window. Color is supplied by pictures, rugs, and the bed cover.

Ruffled curtains and a chintz shade permit numerous variations and are pleasing combinations for a girl's bedroom.

Figured wallpaper calls for plain curtains.

Apron length glass curtains lengthen a short window.

Plain and printed osenburgh curtains repeat rug colors.

Pinch pleats hold fullness in straight even folds.

Figured side draperies add interest to plain walls.

Wooden pole and rings painted to repeat curtain colors.

Simple iron rod suitable with floor length linen draperies.

SELF-HELP BIBS

Pulling the rings is great fun and brings the bib up under the chin.

CIRCUS AP. AVAILABLE
BUREAU HOME ECONOMICS

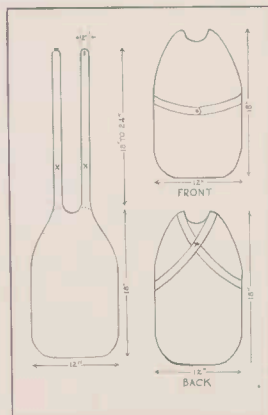

The head is thrust through the circle formed by extended binding tapes which pass through eyelets. A two-year old learns readily to pull rings and throw ends back over shoulders. A tug at each side of neck loosens the bib.

The tapes thrown over the shoulders keep them away from the table and lock the bib.

Only one button to fasten.

An apron type of self-help bib.

Straps are tacked together where they cross in the back.

SELF-HELP SUITS FOR LITTLE BOYS

Blouse fastened with loops and buttons. Trousers have front drop replacing fly. Back fastens over front with buttons placed to prevent gaping.

Summer Outfit

Net top for trousers instead of underwaist. Sleeveless blouse for comfort. Roosy pockets in the blouse add to wearer's happiness.

Overblouses are appropriate for very small boys. On a coat style, buttons can be placed artistically and within reach of the wearer.

Heat Wool Suit

Simple stitching for trimming. No collar, few buttons, all convenient for child to reach.

Trousers have only four buttons and no side pockets.

Trousers have front drop with tailored fastening. Buttons are arranged to prevent gaping.

Front and back of trousers may be dropped separately. Only one thickness of material over each button makes dressing easy for a small boy.

Strap effect replaces usual collar and wider lap reduces number of buttons on the blouse.

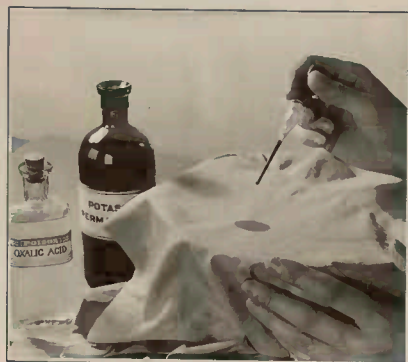

Shaped facing gives effect of collar, is easier to iron and more comfortable to wear.
